AMC's basic climbing class students got plenty of practice in all varieties of rappelling at the Opium Den rocks between Little Granite and the McDowell Mountains. Severity ranged from easy-slope slabs to frec-hanging. A near-one-to-one instructor/student ratio meant constant checking and instant feedback on knots, belaying

MINUTES OF THE AMC BOARD MEETING: 3/12/01

Board members present: Erik Filsinger, Dave Larimer, Bruce McHenry, Scott Hoffman, Jeff Nagel, Bill Stinson

Committee members present: Don Thomas, Wally Vegors

The meeting was called to order at 7:08 p.m. at the Los Olivos Senior Center.

SECRETARY'S REPORT

The minutes of the February 12 Board meeting were approved.

TREASURER'S REPORT

The treasurer circulated the monthly financials for review. The treasurer purchased a CD based on interest rate considerations. The AMC will file the IRS forms required for non-profit entities. These forms will show compliance with our exemption from normal annual filing requirements.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

The President gave an update on several informational items: an overview of the Risk Management Steering Committee meeting held recently; a request for Jeff Nagel (V.P.) to head up a combination of the Classification and Outings committees to recommend reasonable ways to provide incentives for Outings Leaders; a request for Jeff Nagel (V.P.) to head up a group looking into alternatives or better ways to handle newsletter distribution, and a request for all board members and committee chairs to help centralizing the various Key documents of the club. No action required of the Board.

OLD BUSINESS

Based on a request from the Programs Chair, the Board discussed at length the pros and cons of moving the meetings to a new location. There was some desire to reach a final decision that could be lived with for some time to come. Action: Scott Hoffman will work with a small group to assess site alternatives and report back to the Board.

Lengthy consideration was given to the topic of providing the membership form/waiver on the website. Many pros and cons were discussed. Action: The Board decided that for now the only official version of the membership form should be the hard copy it gives to prospective members. In addition, an electronic version of the membership form will be placed on the website but will be used for informational and educational purposes only.

The Board authorized Scott Hoffman to locate and purchase a rope washing device.

NEW BUSINESS

Based on a request from the Web Chair, the Board considered ways to consolidate the double entry and double presentation of upcoming events on the website. Action: Bill Stinson will work with Kirra to develop alternative ideas and present a recommendation to the Board for improvements to the website calendar of events.

Sweat Magazine solicited advertising fees to feature the Club in an upcoming publication. Action: Erik Filsinger will contact Kim Huenecke, as PR Chair, for a recommendation and decision.

It was decided that we would actively solicit participants to our e-groups site through announcement of its features in the newsletter. Action: Bill Stinson and Tim Medlock to work up.

OTHER COMMITTEE REPORTS

None were presented.

The meeting was adjourned at 8:35 p.m.

Year of the Dragon Expeditions Slide Show

Mike Libecki

China - The Unknown Kok Shal Tau

In the summer of 2000, Mike Libecki and his climbing partners headed out to Xinjiang, China, in search of cutting-edge climbing in the monstrous Kok Shal Tau/Tien Shan Mountains. Their specific destination was completely virgin territory, not only untouched by climbers but by all humans. Rumors, old military Russian maps, and instinct convinced Mike and his team to pursue this unknown endeavor. Join them in their journey through difficulties with the Chinese authorities, to experiences with many different cultures from Kyrgyz to Uygur, to exploring ancient tombs and sacred Buddhist caves. Mix that in with cutting-edge climbing on pristine granite, unexpected bivies at 18,000 ft., camels with an attitude, and ox penis for dinner, and you have a truly, fantastic adventure. This show will help benefit The Access Fund. Donations and/or new memberships will be encouraged, followed by a raffle of gear and clothing.

Slide show and all photography by: Mike Libecki

The masting will be held on Monday, April 23rd, from 7:00 - 9:00 p.m. at the Los Olivos Senior Center, 2802 East Devonshire Avenue, one block north of Indian School on the east

There will be an admission fee of $5.00 for non-AMC members.

THE PRESIDENT'S CORNER

I wanted to let the membership know about some of the things we are doing to try to protect the organization and its participants from a risk management perspective. At its February 12, 2001 Board Meeting the Board created a Risk Management Steering Group (RM Group). This group met on Wednesday, March 7, 2001.

The group recognized the work done by various individuals and groups in the past and thanked them for their groundwork. We discussed that part of our Best defense is the important role of safety, a feature the AMC is known for and continues to emphasize. However, the group also recognized that it is equally important to back-up safety procedures with prudent club policies for handling risk management concerns.

Risk Management will be overseen by the RM Group, a committee of standing committee chairs, and presided over by the President. Each standing Committee chair who has an on-going responsibility for an area that is related to risk issues, i.e., for now, T&S, Classification, Outings, and Mountaineering, will take on the additional role of monitoring risk management issues on a day to day basis. On at least an annual basis, the President will call this group of committee chairs together to share ideas and to see what work needs to be done for the following year. As each chair conducts his or her day to day business they will monitor their activities for risk management concerns. Issues that arise will be brought to the attention of the President. New policy concerns would be brought back to the RM Group on an "as-necessary" basis, additional meetings to be called by the President.

The main focus on the ensuing discussion was on identifying the process to be used for risk management, not on specific content of policies or proposals. The group agreed that it is an important part of the process to receive feedback from stakeholder groups, e.g., the Outing Leaders, during the formulation and evaluation of proposals.

A number of individuals with unique expertise related to risk management were identified, including club members Martin Combs and Tim Ward. These Individuals have agreed to help the club President and the RM Group deal with ongoing policy formulation and review.

The group reviewed risk management policies already in place, those policies and materials that were under development, and those that had been discussed but never formulated. Consistent with the model of assigning risk management to existing committee chairs, each topic was discussed and assigned to a committee chair for further handling. The President asked to be kept informed of progress within each committee as the chairs integrate these topics.

Martin Combs handed out a model of risk management that is used by the Girl Scouts of America, which among other things, is designed to identify where a group is exposed to risk and to evaluate their volunteer leadership participation.

The work of the standing committee chairs and the coordinating function of this RM Group should help keep us aware of key issues as they arise. The following is a partial list of policies and procedures the AMC currently has in place. Assignments to committees are indicated for each.

Waiver for members -- Board
Safety training of leaders/instructors -- T&S commercial offerings, and Bulletin Board activities -- Board

Leader application and approval process -Classification
Negligence liability insurance -- Board

There are a variety of other topics the RM Chairs will be working on over the coming year. Let's help them do this important work. And let's be safe out there...

ANCHORS SCHOOL

This course is the next step for Basic School grads and will teach you to safely set anchors for top-roping. We will not cover lead climbing anchors in this class.

- First session: We will cover anchor components, anchor types, knots, hitches.
- Second session: We will cover basic anchor setups and characteristics.
- Third session: You will test yourself in "hands-on" anchor scenarios.
- Fourth session: This is an opportunity to practice your newly learned skills. We will have a climbing outing where you set the anchors under supervision of instructors and then we climb on your anchors.

WHEN & WHERE:

April 17, Tue. (6:00 pm - 9:30 pm): Dreamy Draw Park April 19, Thu. (6:00 pm - 9:30 pm): Dreamy Draw Park April 21, Sat. (8:00 am - 4:00 pm): North Scottsdale April 22, Sun. (7:00 am - 4:00 pm): Location to be announced

To get to Dreamy Draw Park take the 51 "Squaw Peak" to Northern and turn East on Northern. This will take you directly into the Park. We will be at the big Ramada next to the parking lot. Directions to the other locations will be given out then.

EXPERIENCE REQUIRED: AMC Basic School Graduate or equivalent, to include knowledge of how to use prusiks, tie a figure-8-on-a-bight and a figure-8-on-a-follow-through, and make a girth hitch.

COST: $50 ($75 non-members). Register by sending a check payable to AMC Anchors School to Rogil Schroeter, 6519 W. Aire Libre, Glendale, AZ, 85306. Please pay before first class. Call Rogil Schroeter at 623-878-3914 for more information.

EQUIPMENT REQUIRED FOR THE CLASS WILL BE:

- 2 non-locking "D" or Oval carabiners
- locking carabiners (one of which should be a parabiner)
- rappel device (figure-8, Sticht plate, Trango Pyramid, Black Diamond ATC, etc.)
- l climbing harness
- 1 ea 4', 6', 10' 6mm prusiks (untied length)
- 2 5' slings (AKA runners, 1" tubular webbing, untied length)
- 2 10' slings (untied length)
- 2 20' slings (untied length)
- l helmet

(The slings are the only additional equipment needed over the Basic School requirements)

Students will be required to wear a helmet during the Saturday and Sunday sessions. We have helmets available if you do not have one.

This class is designed to teach you how to set anchors for your own climbing experience. In order to become independent and set your own anchors, you should start acquiring anchor gear. These purchases will be limited by how much money you want/have to spend and how much interest you have in climbing independently. The following gear is not required for the anchors class, but if you have some, you will be able to practice setting it in a controlled, learning environment during the class. All of the gear recommended below can be used for the lead class, and none of it will be wasted if you intend to set your own anchors. All gear should be marked prior to bringing it to class to prevent confusing it with other people's gear. If you don't know how to safely mark gear, check with an instructor before doing so to avoid weakening equipment due to improper marking.

OTHER GEAR that you may want to bring to anchors class:

- any pro you may have (hexes, stoppers, camming devices, Tri-cams, etc.)
- * extra biners (regular D's, ovals, and lockers stay away from specialty biners at this time)
- extra slings (perhaps four 5', two 15' slings, untied lengths)

AMC STARTS E-GROUP

Want to share information about climbs and equipment? Want to find a climbing partner for the weekend? Want to send out other "critical" information to your fellow AMC'ers?

Then join the AMC email group at http://groups. yahoo.com/group/azmtnclub. Click "Join This Group" and follow the instructions. This group is open to any member of the AMC. What is this group, you ask? It is a way to send email to a whole group of people without entering each of there addresses. It is a great way to find out who wants to go to the "mine area" this weekend. Or to tell everyone about a great deal on gear on some website.

Also you can post your greatest climbing pictures. and bookmark your favorite climbing related websites. For more information go to the Yahoo groups website and check it out. See you in cyber space!

NOTE: Put enough information in your Yahoo ID Profile so we can identify you as a AMC member. Delivery options available: One email per post, One email per day includes all postings or read the postings on the web page.

AMC KICKS OFF MOUNTAINEERING SEMINAR SERIES

Over the past couple of years, Erik Filsinger has been increasing the club's exposure to alpine mountaineering activities through his Glacier Travel and Crevasse rescue classes. He's also accompanied many of us on ice climbing classes offered through Southwest Adventures in Durango, Colorado. Recently, he announced the club would start a series of seminars designed to bring those of us together who have an interest in mountaineering.

The first of these seminars was held at the Paradise Valley REI on March 1st. Erik presented a slide show to the 16 participants, and gave us an overview of the history of mountaineering throughout the world. We made introductions and shared our mountaineering experiences with the group, and learned that all experience levels were represented. We also discussed the direction the seminars would take in the future. Using Mountaineering: The Freedom of the Hills as a guide, the AMC will schedule monthly seminars covering such topics as clothing and equipment for mountaineering, expedition planning, avalanche safety, snow shelters and winter camping, leadership and group dynamics, and physical and psychological training.

So what is mountaineering? Loosely defined, it is climbing a mountain from its base to its summit and back. In order to do that safely, and depending on the type of mountain, one would need to have experience in rock climbing, glacier travel, ice climbing, back-country medicine, high altitude issues, and any number of other skills. In conjunction with the AMC's regular classes (rock climbing, glacier travel and crevasse rescue, map and compass), the ice climbing classes in Durango, and the annual (I hope) backcountry emergency care class, these seminars will go a long way towards giving club members a solid foundation in mountaineering.

On Thursday, April 5th at 6:30 at the P.V. REI, the AMC will hold the second meeting in this series. April's seminar will be a discussion on clothing and equipment for mountaineering. The focus will be on cold-weather climbing at moderately high altitudes, but can be expanded based on other member's interests and experiences. There will be a number of items for show-and-tell, and anyone with an interesting piece of clothing or equipment is encouraged to bring it along. Time permitting, we will discuss the pros and cons of guided climbing, drawing on the experiences of members who have been on guided climbs throughout the world. This would be a great opportunity for anyone who is interested in the sport to pick up some basic information, and a good opportunity for those with experience to share their knowledge with the group.

—Jeff & Susan Hatfield

SPIFFING UP QUEEN CREEK

AMCers will have a chance to scope out the headquarters site and some of the contest area of this year's Phoenix Bouldering Contest if they attend the semi-annual Clean and Climb day on March 31st.

That is, they can if they still have extra energy after their hour of picking up trash along Highway 60 and then testing themselves on the routes rigged for them by AMC leaders. The PBC people can use extra help getting ready for the following week's event — clearing trails and building trail cairns, hauling ropes and signs, etc.

Meet at the Mesa Community College parking lot at 8:00 a.m. or gather at 9:00 at the Oak Flat turnoff on the hill crest east of Superior. Leaders will rig climbs while the crew preens the roadsides.

For info call Charlene Todd at 480-917-5354.

SNOW TRAVEL & CREVASSE RESCUE

If there is one skill which most Arizonans do not possess, it is understanding the dangers of traveling in snowy mountains and knowing how to get out of trouble once in it.

AMC is rectifying this woeful lack with a snow travel and crevasse rescue class which will be taught April 28th and 29th in the Flagstaff area. It will cover use of ice axe, crampons, roped travel, avalanche hazards, using pickets, flukes, snow screws and ice and snow bollards for anchors, plus how to get someone out of a crevasse if he or she falls in.

The one evening plus two weekend days class costs $50 and is prerequisite to any of the Colorado ice climbing outings. Enrollees must have taken the AMC Basic class and Anchors class. Those who have previously taken the class are welcome to attend at no charge if they will assist in teaching.

Information — Erik Filsinger at 602-906-1186.

ED. NEEDS A LAW CLERK

The Court (House) has adjourned and the verdict is a most enjoyable, memorable, and successful outing. Seven AMCers braved threatening skies and were rewarded with a full day of multi-pitch climbing.

Everyone got a chance to lead as we worked our way up this 1,000+ adventure-land of rock. The teamwork going up was duplicated as we rapped the way down.

Participants — Chris, Forest, Jutta, Sheri, Tu and me.

Observations:

1. Short approach

2. Leads tend to be runout.

3. Good bolts at belay anchors (if you find them.)

4. Minimum 6 roped pitches to summit

Ever-present rock fall danger.

Tu was ambushed by a wild band of jumping cholla, but Seth scared them off before they could inflict serious damage.

CLIMBER TALKS; SIGNS BOOKS

Shelley Presson-Dunbar is a professional competitive sport climber, formerly ranked second in the U.S. She has written "Climbing: A Woman's Guide" distilled from her nearly two decades of experience. She will present a question and answer clinic and signing at both area REI stores — Paradise Valley on April 9th and Tempe on the 10th. The events run from 7 to 8:30 pm and are free.

Even though her new book focuses on women on rock, men can learn a lot from this charismatic climber. —Kim

The Park Service's proposed management plan for Rocky Mtn. NP contains bolting and aid rules similar to those proposed by a majority of the USFS wilderness area climbing rules study committee, according to the American Alpine Club..

The Forest Service decision (as all other new Federal rulemaking) had been put on hold by the Bush administration for two months. National Parks, at least, seems not to have been stampeded by the more doctrinaire wilderness purists.

SCREE

Basic School students Gisela Kluwin and Shon Williams rest amid poppies as they wait to tackle their next rock-climbing problem at the Opium Den

Neat place, huh?

If anyone didn't realize it before, anyone who saw the land being sought for preservation around Little Granite Mountain should now recognizes its recreation potential — and its pure unadulterated beauty. OK, its beauty may be slightly adulterated by power lines and tracks and such, but it was still a terrific place to be on a sunny weekend in March.

Last month's newsletter suggested that people write to Gov. Jane Hull, State Land Commissioner Michael Anable, and to the Republic and Tribune commending this area's recreational benefits. I hereby renew this suggestion. As stated last month, Scottsdale has made an API application to the State Land Department to classify 16,000 acres (including Little Granite and the Opium Den rocks) as suitable for conservation. The State Land Dept. Advisory Commission has already met but additional public support couldn't hurt. Write to:

Commissioner Michael Anable State Land Department 1616 W. Adams St. Phoenix, AZ 85007 Because of unforeseeable and untoward events such as elderly relatives keeling over I was unable to answer several inquiries about what our newsletter's "editorial requirements" might be. Given recent newsletters their puzzlement is understandable. Requirements?

I prefer to receive submissions on paper at my home address or in an electronic format that my computer can digest. Beyond that I'm easy.

To elucidate a bit -- roughly 400 to 500 words will fill one newsletter column; 800 to 1,000 will fill a page. A one-column photo occupies the space of ca. 150-200 words. I have printed accounts than ran as long as six pages in the past. I am also fully prepared to print a couplet, if one arrives. So far none has, which is a pity. I am also braced for pantuns, triolets, haiku and even sonnets if they show up on my "desk." Pen and ink, pencil and charcoal drawings are welcome, too.

Some of the best and brightest wordsmithing I have encountered came from recent basic school graduates describing graduation climbs or outings to other areas as they experienced them for the first time. The excitement and novelty really comes through.

Of course, there are those reliable, conscientious stalwarts who, after making all arrangements and actually leading an outing, take the time and trouble to report on their trip, telling who was there, passing out praise when deserved, and giving the flavor of the climbs for the edification of those who have not yet seen the place. With our twice-yearly basic schools, there is always an appreciative audience for these reports. You know who you are – thank you, thank you, Thank You!

The communication process is in flux. Any fool can see that. Yes, we still speak words and use gestures (liminal and sub) and pauses and our attentiveness or lack of it to convey — or hide — meaning. But even the presumably objective printed word now runs in channels that did not exist a few years ago.

For now the "hard copy" newsletter will continue to exist despite the club's venture into cyberspace. But a milestone or ridge-crest (or something) has been reached this month as AMC inaugurates its new e-message board described elsewhere in this issue.

One advantage — it is not necessary to wait for a planned outing. Check the board and see who feels like doing what this week end... How to join? Go to http://groups.yahoo.com/group/azmtnclub>

COMMERCIALLY PROVIDED TRAINING AND EVENTS

The events listed below are provided by commercial outfitters for the benefit of AMC members These are not AMC Outings, nor are theyled by AMC Outing Leaders, though they may be open only to AMC members. The commercial outfitter is solely responsible for all aspects of the outing, not AMC. While, in most cases, an AMC member may provide a service by AM by collecting names of prospective participants and handling the logistics for out-of-town events, participants will sign up directly with the commercial outfitter.

AMC CALENDAR OF EVENTS

Participation in AMC outings requires club membership. Outings vary in degree of danger. When you participate in an outing you should be both physically and mentally prepared and equipped with the appropriate gear. You should always be aware of the risks involved in outdoor activities and conduct yourselves accordingly. The outing leader is not responsible for your safety, you are. Please contact the outing leader before going on an outing, discussing your capabilities with the outing leader. You must be over 18 years of age to participate, or must be accompanied by a parent or responsible adult, and obtain prior consent from the outing leader. Those accompanying minors are responsible for the minor's safety.
